1. Grab Attention Fast – Does It Stop the Scroll
    - Hook in 0–3 seconds with movement, bold text, or emotion
      Start with a problem, question, or strong visual — no slow intros
    - Make your first frame a scroll-stopper
        - Eye-catching visuals or movement?
        - Surprising statement or humour?
        - Strong question or bold claim?
        - Audience relevance made clear fast?
2. Audience Targeting & Relevance
    - Ask:
        - Is it clear who this ad is for?
        - Uses language, tone, visuals familiar to the target group?
        - Identifies a pain point, desire, or aspiration?
        - Features people or settings that feel relatable?
        - Good ads feel like they “speak your language”
3. Design for Sound Off (but Delight With Sound On)
    - Always use captions or text overlays — up to 85% of social video is watched muted
    - Include good music or voice-over to reward those who watch with sound
    - Lead With Value, Not Features
    - Focus on benefits, transformations, and outcomes
    - Solve problems, spark curiosity, or promise relief
        - Does it explain what makes the product unique?
        - Are benefits clear, not just features?
        - Uses comparisons, testimonials, or emotional hooks?
        - Show how the product improves life, solves a problem, or feels premium
4. Storytelling & Flow
    - Ask:
        - Is the message clear and engaging from start to finish?
        - Is there a beginning (hook), middle (proof/demo), and end (CTA)?
        - Smooth transitions and pacing?
    - Does the emotion or tone stay consistent?
    - Narrative structure helps retention and recall
5. Show Real People Using the Product
    - Use face-first visuals to build trust and relatability
    - Influencer or UGC-style (User-Generated Content) performs especially well

    - Avoid overly polished or corporate vibes unless you're targeting premium audiences
    - Authenticity is more effective than high production value

6. Use On-Screen Text for Emphasis

- Highlight:
    - Offer (e.g. “Only $8.30/session”)
    - Product benefits (e.g. “No tangle, no noise”)
    - Urgency (e.g. “Limited slots available”)

    Animate or time text to the rhythm of speech or music
    Captions should support, not repeat, the visuals

7. Clear Call-to-Action
    - Examples:
        - Tap to shop
        - Book your trial now
        - Link in bio
    - Place the CTA early and/or at the end

    Use buttons or strong visual cues when possible
    Don’t assume viewers know what to do next

8. Speak the Platform Language

🗓️ 10. Align With Platform Culture

Platform	Tip
TikTok	Use trending sounds, native transitions, “talking head” style
Instagram Reels	Focus on aesthetics, lifestyle, and smooth visuals
Facebook	Skews slightly older — clear text and family-friendly tone
YouTube Shorts	Lean into storytelling, edutainment, or reactions

✅ Speak the platform’s language.

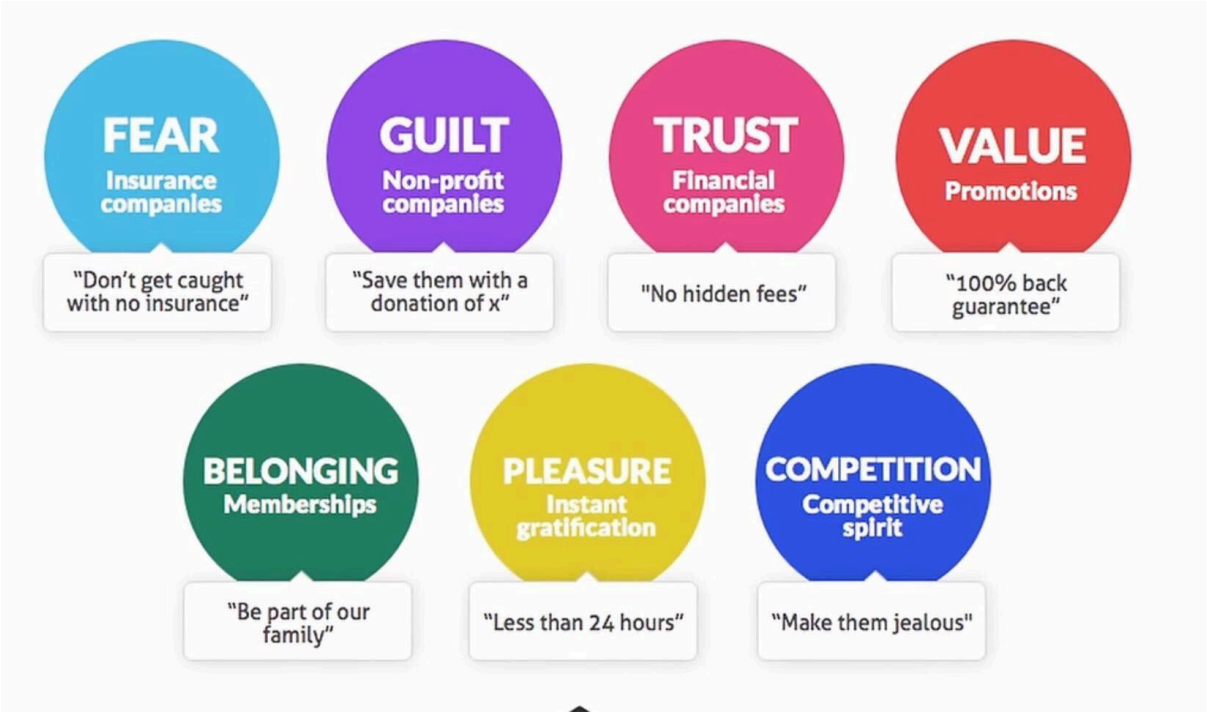
Bonus: Behaviour Triggers

Powerful ads often tap into:

- FOMO or urgency (“Limited slots!”)
- Social proof (“1.8M customers trust us”)
- Contrast or before/after

- Humour or shock value

Emotional Triggers



- Humour
- Sexuality

✅ Summary Cheat Sheet:

Element	You Should See
🎯 Hook	Clear, fast, engaging
👥 Targeting	Speaks to a defined group
💎 Value	Clear benefits, USP
📽️ Visual Flow	Smooth, well-paced, emotional arc
🔊 Sound	Music, VO, or silence used with purpose
📢 CTA	Obvious, simple, action-oriented
🗓️ Format	Optimised for platform and viewer behaviour

Marketing Models to Compare the Ads To

- AIDA Model (Attention, Interest, Desire, Action)

🎬 1. AIDA Model — For structure and persuasion flow

Stage	What to Look For in the Video
Attention	Hook in first 3 secs — does it stop the scroll?
Interest	Is the viewer engaged with story, visuals, or message?
Desire	Are benefits and emotions compelling?
Action	Is there a clear, persuasive CTA?

- TOFU–MOFU–BOFU Funnel

Funnel Stage	Characteristics
TOFU (Awareness)	Fun, viral, lifestyle-focused, brand mention optional
MOFU (Consideration)	Demonstrates product benefits, solves a problem
BOFU (Conversion)	Reviews, testimonials, pricing, direct CTA to buy/book

- Trust Funnel
